

West Midlands Institute of Psychotherapy

A SPACE TO THINK

INTRODUCTORY COURSE TO CONTEMPORARY PSYCHOANALYTIC IDEAS 2012

This course will be of interest to people working in the helping professions who wish to further their knowledge and skill base in psychoanalytic ideas. Interested individuals might include psychiatrists, psychologists, counsellors, general practitioners, nurses, clergy, teachers with pastoral interest, and others. This course may also appeal to those considering more intensive training in psychoanalytic psychotherapy at a later stage.

Dates: 9th January 2012 to 19th March 2012

10 Monday afternoons

Format: seminar 2.00-3.10pm, break 3.10-3.30pm, clinical discussion 3.30-4.30pm

Venue: West Midlands Institute of Psychotherapy
Birmingham Medical Institute
36 Harborne Road
Edgbaston, Birmingham, B15 3AF

Topics covered will include: the nature of psyche, the major psychoanalytic models (Freud, Jung and Klein), the unconscious, defences, the analytic relationship, transference/counter-transference, attachment theory, psychopathology, neuropsychological aspects, evidence and research in the psychoanalytical field. (A more detailed course outline will be available shortly.)

Co-ordinating committee: Dr Basia Gasiorek (Chair), Ms Margaret Robertson, Ms Christine Pitt.

Places limited, early application is advised.

Applications to be received by 25.11.11.

Cost: £395.00

For further details and application form contact Annette Rodney, WMIP administrator, on (0121) 455-7888, or email admin@wmip.org.

CPD certificates will be available at the end of the course